

Article published on January 21st 2012 | Weddings

Wedding invitations are the first and foremost thing that people will look for, in association with your wedding ceremony. Regardless of the fact that whether you are making these invitations on your own or having them printed from a well known professional, the wording to be included in the wedding cards is imperative. The wordings included in your invitation card will serve the purpose of informing the guests about all the necessary details that they need in order to attend your marriage ceremony. Wording the invites in a proper manner will help in conveying the necessary information to the guests.

While the ultimate decision about wording the wedding invitations rest with you, understanding the basics of wording can definitely help you in lessening the stress of your marriage preparation. Mentioned below are some basics that will help you in easily wording your wedding invite.

â€¢ First of all, you need to start with the person who is hosting the wedding. Traditionally, the bride's parents used to host the event, but in the present-day world it may be the parents of both the bride as well as groom. The list of the names of hosts should be followed by an indication that the recipient is invited to be a part of the big day.

â€¢ Secondly, you need to mention the names of the bride and groom. Conventionally, bride's name is to be listed first, but you can choose to start with the groom's name. You can also include the middle names while mentioning the names of the bride and the groom.

â€¢ Listing the date of the big day is the next step in the wording process. This is one of the most important information which is to be included in the wedding card. You should prefer listing the date in a numerical format or by spelling out the month, weekday and the date, year along with the timings, depending on your choice.

â€¢ Mentioning the location is next on the priority list. If the guests are well aware about the location, for instance in a small township where only a couple of members will be present, you can just list the name of the place or church. However, if a large number of guests will be arriving from other states as well, then you should mention the complete address of the location.

â€¢ If you are also planning to host a reception ceremony, then you need to provide the details of the reception after the former details. You can provide detailed information about the event like kinds of meal, dancing event and other source of entertainment, any kind of dress code and others.

â€¢ Lastly, you should include a return RSVP envelope and a card in the postage in order to make it easy for the guests to RSVP. RSVP is request for a reply from the guests being invited.

So, these are some basics about wording the wedding invitations. You can follow these guidelines carefully in order to word all the invitations in a hassle free and quick manner.

Article Source:

<http://www.articleside.com/weddings-articles/comprehensive-guide-to-word-your-wedding-invitations.htm> - Article Side

Wanda - About Author:

Inkpretty is a great website that offers you exclusive a wedding invitations ideas. You can easily visit this website in order to look for some different a wedding invitations ideas.

Article Keywords:

Wedding invitations, wedding stationery, Irish wedding stationery, Buy marriage invitations

You can find more free articles on Article Side. Sign up today and share your knowledge to the community! It is completely FREE!