It's commonly assumed that a wedding is the most expensive affair in our lives. But many times, it is ignored that you can have a cheap wedding if you have a low-budget. Take a look at some ideas on how to plan a cheap wedding which won't cost you a lot, but let you have a good time with friends and family.

Venue

To plan an inexpensive wedding, first of all you need to decide where you want to take your wedding vows. If you have a garden or a big backyard, this can be the best gift a bride can get. If you don't have so much space at home, you can always have a beach wedding.

Cheap Wedding dress and cheap wedding Invitations

The wedding gown is the biggest attraction in the whole wedding and it has to look good. So if you want a graceful, yet cheap gown, look for the gown sales held at the end of every season. Don't buy flashy ones but simple satin and lace, as they are cheap and attractive. You can buy silver jewelry as it is cheap, but don't compromise with the rings as they are an investment.

The cheap wedding invitations need not be very fancy. You can have simple yet elegant looking text and write some wedding quotes with your names and all the ceremonial information addressed to the desired guests. You will need a guest list for the wedding invitations.

Reception

If you are wondering how to plan a cheap wedding reception, the best you can do is plan for an enjoyable menu. If you're fond of appetizers, try some chicken recipes instead of meat and don't forget to add salads in the menu. For the main course, you can have trout instead of salmon and other sea food recipes like shrimp or lobsters. Cupcakes for deserts or a homemade ice cream with fillers can be a great choice for your wedding menu.

For the toast and drinks you can have wine for those who like it and champagne for the others. If you feel you can accommodate an open bar in your budget, do it, as a lot of people like to have cocktails and margaritas as their drinks.

If you want to cut down the cost of the flowers, you can opt for seasonal flowers during the time of your wedding. Daisies and daffodils are cheap and beautiful choices. Asters and gerberas also are a good option for wedding flowers as they look good and have bright colors. You can decide on a color scheme and then place the order for wedding flowers like garden roses, sunflowers, hydrangea, gladiolus and calla lilies.

Wedding Favors

Wedding favors are a token of gratitude for the guests who attend the wedding. If you want to have cheap wedding favors, chocolates wrapped in a couple picture of yours kept on the table will serve the purpose. Book marks with some quotes or poems can also be a great wedding favor idea. You can also put up a blog which can be your wedding favor to all your guests right after the wedding.

With those suggestions for how to plan a cheap wedding, you can have a good time in less money.

So, now that your wedding is planned go get ready and have a blast on the best day of your lives.
